under the direction of
WILLIAM C. FAQUIN, MD, PHD
JENNIFER L. HUNT, MD
G. PETUR NIELSEN, MD
PETER M. SADOW, MD, PHD

Featuring Guest Speaker: LEON BARNES, MD

EXHIBITION: Exhibitors of interest will be featured in the Great Hall of the Fairmont Copley Plaza.

COURSE DESCRIPTION: Head and neck pathology is a subspecialized and highly challenging area where diagnostic pitfalls are common. This course will focus on practical diagnostic algorithms with illustrative examples to aid in avoiding diagnostic errors. The course provides a comprehensive review of head and neck surgical pathology including the upper respiratory tract, thyroid, salivary gland, skin, inflammatory diseases, lymphomas, mesenchymal lesions, and oral cavity lesions. Emphasis will be placed on important practical issues for the general as well as subspecialized surgical pathologist. We will review the use of appropriate ancillary studies as well as recent advances and new entities in the field. The course will include a lecture format and evening practical session; it will also include frequent discussion periods, and each participant will receive a comprehensive course syllabus.

ACCREDITATION: The Harvard Medical School is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The Harvard Medical School designates this live activity for a maximum of 24 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. SAMs credit for Maintenance of Certification for the American Board of Pathology will also be provided. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

ACGME COMPETENCIES: This course is designed to meet one or more of the following Accreditation Council of Graduate Medical Education competencies: • Medical knowledge • Practice-based learning and improvement

TARGET AUDIENCE: The activity is designed to target practicing surgical pathologists in academic centers and community hospital settings on a local, national, and international level. The course is also suitable for pathology residents, fellows in training, and cytopathologists. In addition, clinicians in the fields of head and neck and surgery may also find the course informative.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES: Upon completion of this course, participants will be able to:
- Apply histomorphologic criteria to the diagnosis of a broad range of head and neck surgical pathology specimens
- Recognize and avoid common pitfalls in head and neck surgical pathology
- Apply appropriate ancillary studies in the evaluation of head and neck specimens
