Transitioning to Adult Care: Finding a PCP and Other Services

Our kids go through many transitions in their young life but none so significant as the jump into adulthood. For years their pediatrician or family physician has come to know everything about them and [hopefully] provided a warm safety blanket for many of the challenges that popped up along the way. But at 18yo, the medical and outside world now considers your child an adult. As a parent it can feel like an eminent disruption in all the supports you have worked so hard to put in place for years. This Lurie Center for Autism presentation will provide an overview of the transition to adulthood and how to continue to best advocate for your child.
