

APPLICATIONS ARE NOW OPEN!

The Center for Suicide Research and Prevention

At Mass General Brigham and Harvard University

presents

The 2023-2024 Pilot Grant Program

The NIH's newest practice-based center for suicide research, the Center for Suicide Research and Prevention (CSRP) at Massachusetts General Hospital and Harvard University, is a multidisciplinary center aimed at advancing and implementing innovative research. In alignment with the NIH's requirement for practice-based centers to provide opportunities for funded research and the CSRP's goal to support burgeoning research in the space of suicide prediction and prevention, the CSRP is now accepting applications for pilot grant funding.

AWARD AMOUNT

Selected projects will receive up to $50,000 to advance their research for one (1) year.
Funds can be used flexibly to support salary or research costs.

HOW TO APPLY

Complete our REDCap Application to apply! Click here
To learn more and read our FAQs, visit our website.

DEADLINE

Thursday, February 15, 2024 @5PM Eastern Standard Time, for the funding period starting June 1st, 2024 – May 31st, 2025.

HAVE OTHER QUESTIONS?
CONTACT US @ MGHCSRP@MGB.ORG

CSRP

Center for Suicide Research and Prevention