

MentorMGB Launch

Overview:

The MGH Center for Faculty Development and the MESH Incubator are pleased to announce the launch of our new mentoring and research collaboration website, MentorMGB (www.mentorMGB.org). This platform is available to faculty, postdocs, graduate students, and others across MGH, BWH, and affiliated hospitals to encourage cross-specialty mentorship and research collaboration. Through this, we hope to foster a dynamic cross-institution mentorship culture and facilitate research collaborations.

This mentorship platform can be thought of as “LinkedIn” for the MGB community, connecting faculty across hospitals for finding and giving secondary mentorship, collaborating on research interests/finding new projects, and general work and non-work discussion/connections.

Faculty, Postdocs, Graduate Students, and others can join by registering on the MentorMGB platform with their partners.org and harvard.edu email and create a profile.

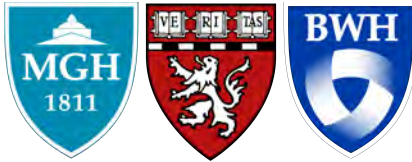

If you have any issues logging in, please email msucci@mg.harvard.edu. As some emails/aliases have changed over time, we may need to update your email.

Certain faculty may have received a preregistration email containing your login details. If not, first time users will need to register and create an account using your partners.org or harvard.edu email as detailed below.

Click here to register: <https://www.mentormgb.org/register/>

If you already have a login, you can login directly here: <https://www.mentormgb.org>

Register using your partners.org or .harvard.edu email. No other emails will be accepted for security reasons. This platform is closed to the MGB only.

Go to your profile (top right-hand corner) and click edit profile from the dropdown to make changes to your profile page.

Brief description of features:

<https://www.mentormgb.org/members/>. This is the first page you see when you login. This page will eventually have all faculty across the MGB system, in all specialties, and provide the ability to search by research interest, mentorship area, etc., and send messages that go to their MGB email inbox. The more of your profile you fill out, the more searchable you will be on the network, and the higher the opportunity to foster connections will be.

The screenshot displays the 'Courses' section of the mentormgb.org website. At the top, there are navigation links for 'Find a mentor or research collaborator', 'Courses', 'Medical News Updates', 'Groups', and 'mentormgb mentor'. Below the navigation is a search bar for courses. The main content area shows a grid of course cards. Each card features a 'START COURSE' button, a lesson count (e.g., '1 Lesson' or '4 Lessons'), the course title, the instructor's name (e.g., 'mentormgb mentor' or 'Ruth Gotian'), and a progress indicator (e.g., '0% Complete' or '100% Complete'). The courses include 'FacDev a la carte | Career Opportunities...', 'FacDev a la carte | Conflict Management...', 'FacDev a la carte | Financial Literacy for...', 'FacDev a la carte | Getting the Most Out...', 'FacDev a la carte | How a mentor can help yo...', 'FacDev a la carte | Lessons from “The...’', 'FacDev a la carte | Looking Your Best on...', 'FacDev a la carte | New Faculty Orientation', and 'FacDev a la carte | ED'.

<https://www.mentormgb.org/groups/>. This is a page to create interest groups and meet others across the MGB system with like-minded interests. The current groups are demo groups, but feel free to create your own and add your colleagues – they can be private or public.
