

Russ Eisenstat

Executive Coach, Co-Founder, Rising Path Partners

Russ has spent the last four decades coaching and supporting leaders and organizations around the world in unlocking their full potential. He recently co-founded Rising Path Partners to provide educational programs, as well as coaching services, to individuals going through major transitions in their work and life.

Russ served as the founding Executive Director of the Center for Higher Ambition Leadership, which supports the development of purpose and values driven leaders and organizations. He co-authored Higher Ambition, a book that shows how great leaders create superior long term social as well as economic value.

After receiving his Ph.D. from Yale in clinical psychology, Russ served six years on the faculty of the Harvard Business School in the leadership and organizational behavior area. He was the founding President of TruePoint, a mission driven organizational consulting firm. He also spent five years at McKinsey & Company as a Senior Organizational Fellow and expert in the areas of leadership, organizational design and change.

His research, teaching and consulting on transformational leadership and change has earned international recognition. For example, his and Michael Beer's contributions to helping leaders "speak truth to power" received the Award for the Outstanding Organizational Development Project Worldwide from the Organizational Development Institute.

Personal

Russ shares a passionate commitment to the Red Sox, the Celtics, and the Patriots with his wife and three adult children.